ADJECTIVES

A. FORMATION OF FEMININE FORM - in most cases the feminine form of the adjective is formed by adding an -e, but there are exceptions.

Irregular forms of Adjectives
ADJ. ENDINGS	MASCULINE	FEMININE	ENGLISH EQUIV.
-C → -CHE	blanc	blanche	white
-C → -QUE	public	publique	public
-ER → -ÈRE	premier	première	first
-ET → -ÈTE	inquiet	inquiète	nervous
-EUR → -EURE	supérieur	supérieure	superieur
-EUR → -EUSE	menteur	menteuse	liar
-EUR → -RICE	acteur	actrice	actor
-ET → -ETTE	muet	muette	silent
-IF → -IVE	actif naïf sportif	active naïve sportive	active naïve athletic
-N → -NNE	bon mignon	bonne mignonne	good cute
-L → -LLE	gentil intellectuel personnel	gentille intellectuelle personnelle	nice intellectual personal
-EUX → -EUSE	généreux heureux sérieux	généreuse heureuse sérieuse	generous happy serious

SPECIAL CASES	beau *bel	belle	beautiful
	doux	douce	soft
	faux	fausse	false
	favori	favorite	favorite
	frais	fraîche	fresh
	long	longue	long
	nouveau *nouvel	nouvelle	new
	sec	sèche	dry
	vieux *vieil	vieille	old

*NOTE: Special forms of these adjectives are used before a masculine singular noun beginning with a vowel or mute h.

un bel homme

un nouvel étudiant

un vieil ami

B. PLURAL FORMATION - Adjectives with a regular plural form also add -s to the masculine or feminine singular.

Regular Plural of Adjectives
GENDER	SINGULAR	PLURAL
Masculine	grand intelligent sympathique	grands intelligents sympathiques
Feminine	petite blonde agréable	petites blondes agréables

NOTE: An adjective that modifies both a masculine and a feminine noun at the same time takes the masculine plural form.

Nous cherchons une femme et un homme intelligents.

1. Adjectives ending in -s or -x in the masculine singular show no change in the masculine plural form. Feminine forms, however, add -s:

un garçon français	des garçon français
un homme heureux	des hommes heureux
une jeune fille française	de jeunes filles françaises
une femme heureuse	des femmes heureuses

2. Adjectives ending -u in the masculine singular add -x to form the plural.

un beau garçon	de beaux garçons
un nouveau tableau	de nouveaux tableaux.

BUT

une belle maison	de belles maisons
une nouvelle voiture	de nouvelles voitures

NOTE: The indefinite article des should change to de when followed by a plural adjective + plural noun

de bons amis de jolies femmes

However, the above usage is current undergoing change, and des is used in current conversational French.

J'ai des bons amis.

EXCEPTIONS

3. Adjectives depicting qualified colors do NOT agree with the nouns they modify des cheveux châtain foncé (dark brown)

des cheveux châtain clair (light brown)

4. Adjectives of color (orange, citron, crème, marron, etc.) that are also nouns do NOT agree with the nouns they modify

des rideaux crème

C. POSITION OF ADJECTIVES

1. Adjectives usually follow the nouns they modify, which is the opposite of English usage.

un homme amusant	a funny man
trois copains agréables	three nice pals
une femme élégante	an elegant woman

2. There are a few adjectives that are exceptions to this rule as they precede the noun.

beau	handsome/beautiful
bon / mauvais	good/bad
grand / petit	big, tall / small, little, short
jeune / vieux	young / old
nouveau	new
joli	pretty

un beau garçon

un bon ami

une jeune femme

D. The following adjective change their meaning according to their placement:

ancien	mon ancien professeur my former professor	un livre ancien an ancient / old book
certain	un certain homme a certain, particular man	une victoire certaine a sure win
cher	mes chers collègues my dear colleagues	des machines chères expensive machines
dernier	la dernière année the final year (in a series)	l'année dernière the last, preceding year
grand	un grand homme a great man	un homme grand a big / tall man
même	la même idée the same idea	l'idée même the very idea
pauvre	la pauvre famille poor, unfortunate family	la famille pauvre poor, penniless family
propre	ma propre chambre my own room	une chambre propre a clean room

prochain	la prochaine fois next time (in a series)	la semaine prochaine next week (one coming)
seul	le seul homme the only man	un homme seul a solitary man

ADVERBS

- A. FORMATION - Adverbs are generally formed by adding -ment to the feminine form of the adjective. The -ment ending is equivalent to the -ly adverb ending in English.

ADJECTIVE	ADVERB	TRANSLATION
lent(e)	lentement	slowly
sincère	sincèrement	sincerely
ouvert(e)	ouvertement	openly
attentif(-ve)	attentivement	attentively
heureux(-se)	heureusement	fortunately

For adjectives that end in -ant or -ent, drop the -nt and add -mment to create the adverb form.

indépendant	→	indépendam ment	independently
intelligent	→	intelligem ment	intelligently

The following are some common adverbs that do NOT have the -ment ending.

bien	well	mal	badly	très	very bientôt	soon	souvent	often	trop	too much / many
déjà	already	toujours	always	vite	quickly
encore	still, yet

- B. POSITION - The normal position for adverbs in simple tenses is directly after the conjugated verb.

Il étudie attentivement.
Elles jouent bien au tennis.

*He studies attentively.
They play tennis well.*

NOTE: In compound tenses, such as the passé composé, the longer adverbs ending in -ment normally follow the past participle. Short adverbs, such as those above, follow the conjugated auxiliary verb and precede the past participle.

Il a étudié attentivement.
Elle ont bien travaillé.

*He studied attentively.
They worked well.*

ARTICLES

- A. INDEFINITE ARTICLES - All nouns in French are either masculine or feminine and are usually preceded by a marker that indicates gender. One type of gender marker is the indefinite article UN / UNE which is equivalent to the English a / an. The indefinite article simply states the existence of a person, thing, or concept; it does not specify any particular one. The plural of UN / UNE is DES (=some).

un homme	des hommes
un ami	des amis
une soeur	des soeurs
une jeune fille	des jeunes filles

1. In most cases, UN / UNE / DES become DE (D' before nouns beginning with a vowel) after a verb used in the negative.

-Tu cherches un camarade de chambre? Are you looking for a roommate?

-Non, je ne cherche pas de camarade de chambre. No, I'm not looking for a roommate.

Ce ne sont pas des livres.
Ce n'est pas un bon livre.

*These aren't books.
This isn't a good book.*

2. Nouns referring to males are generally masculine (un homme) and nouns referring to females are generally feminine (une soeur).

-Some nouns have both a masculine and feminine form: un ami / une amie

- Other nouns, although they refer to both men & women have only one form:
un professeur

B. DEFINITE ARTICLES

le, la, l', les
Singular forms	Plural form
le [masculine]
l' [masculine / feminine nouns that begin with vowel sounds]	les [masculine / feminine plural]
la [feminine]

Uses of definite Articles

- designates a noun in a general / generic / collective sense
- designates a noun in a specific sense
- designates an abstract concept

1. General / generic / collective sense - the broadest sense to the idea of someone, something. Please note that in English, no article is used in this context.

Anne aime le tennis. [This implies that Anne likes tennis in general.]
Anne likes tennis.

Michel n'aime pas la bière. [This implies that Michel dislikes all beer.]
Michel doesn't like beer.

Le fromage français coûte cher aux États-Unis. [This implies all French cheese in general is expensive]
French cheese costs a lot in the USA.

NOTE: The definite article is used often after the verbs AIMER, DETESTER, & PREFERER to express a generalized sense of like, dislike, or preference.

-Aimez-vous le vin?
-Non, je n'aime pas le vin, mais j'aime la bière.
Do you like wine?
No, I don't like wine but I like beer.

- 2.. Specific sense - Please note that in English, the article is also used in this context.

Voici les clés. [This refers to specific keys that have already been mentioned.]
Here are the keys.

Où est l'hôtel Jean-Bart? [This refers to a specific hotel, the Jean-Bart Hotel.]
Where is the Jean Bart hotel?

3. Abstract sense - used to express abstract concept where the article is normally omitted in English.

La liberté est importante. [The concept of Freedom]
Freedom is important.

Elle étudie la psychologie. [psychology as science/its concepts]
She is studying psychology.

1. Other uses of the Definite Article

- a. The definite article is used in conjunction with the preposition de to indicate possession.

FORMATION: le/la/l'/les + the possessee + de + possessor l'ami de Vincent Vincent's friend

les livres d'Isabelle Isabelle's books

- b. The definite article is used before the names of languages, except after the preposition en and after the verb parler

Le français est très intéressant. French is interesting.
Le film est en italien. The film is in Italian.

Suzanne parle français mais elle ne parle pas espagnol. Susan speaks French, but she doesn't speak Spanish.

NOTE: When the verb PARLER is modified by adverb the definite article is optional.

Sophie parle bien le français. Sophie speaks French well.

- c. The definite article indicates the idea of per when used before units of measure.

C'est 5F ... le kilo (per kilo)
 le litre (per liter)
 la livre (per pound)
 la bouteille (per bottle)

- d. When the definite article is placed before the days of the week, it indicated the idea of a repeated occurrence (every _____ or on _____s). The days of the week are all masculine & are not capitalized in French.

lundi	Monday	vendredi	Friday
mardi	Tuesday	samedi	Saturday
mercredi	Wednesday	dimanche	Sunday
jeudi	Thursday

Elle étudie le dimanche.
Il ne travaille pas le samedi.
Je sors le samedi.

*She studies on Sundays.
He doesn't work on Saturdays.
I go out every Saturday.*

NOTE: When no article is used with the days of the week, this indicates a one time occurrence & does not indicate a habitual occurrence.

Qu'est-ce que vous faites samedi? What are you doing on Saturday.

e. The definite article is generally used with the parts of the body.

- Qu'est-ce que tu as?
-Oh, j'ai mal à la tête. *What's the matter with you?
I have a headache.*
- Est-ce qu'il a les cheveux blonds?
-Non, il a les cheveux noirs. *Does he have blond hair?
No, he has black hair.*
- Le pauvre Paul: Il a mal au dos. Poor Paul! His back hurts.

*NOTE: Unlike English, in French, the possessive adjectives (my, your, his/her, our, their) are never used with parts of the body, but instead, the definite articles are used because the nature of the sentence itself clearly indicates possession.

NOTE: When the part of the body is modified by an adjective that precedes the noun, however, the indefinite article is used instead.

Voilà un homme avec un grand nez!
There's a man with a big nose!

Oui, et il a aussi de grands yeux noirs.
Yes, and he's also got big dark eyes.

CONTRACTIONS WITH THE DEFINITE ARTICLE

1. À + Definite Article

Definite Article Contractions with Preposition À
à + le	au
à + la	à la
à + l'	à l'
à + les	aux

Tu parles au père de Paul.
Je vais à la campagne.
Il parle à l' oncle de Frédéric.
Elle donne du vin aux parents.

*You are talking to Paul's father.
I'm going to the country.
He's talking to Frederic's uncle.
She's giving some wine to the parents.*

2. DE + Definite Article

Definite Article Contractions with Prep. DE de + le	du
de + la	de la
de + l'	de l'
de + les	des

Nous parlons du frère de Thomas. We're talking about Thomas's brother.
 Tu parles de la belle-mère de Jean? Are you talking about Jean's mother-in-law?
 Vous parlez de l' enfant de Philippe. You're talking about Philippe's child.
 Les amis des garçons sont pénibles. The boy's friends are annoying.

C. PARTITIVE

1. Distinctive Features

- The partitive is used to express the idea of a certain amount, quantity or portion of something, but not the whole thing.
- Equivalent to some or any (=a part of) in English that can be used both with concrete or abstract nouns.
- In English, the partitive article is often omitted, but in French it must always be used before a noun whenever the idea of some or any is implied.

2. Formation

Le Partitive
Masculine Singular	Feminine Singular	M or F before a vowel or aspirate H	M / F plural
du	de la	de l'	des

Est-ce que tu veux du vin? Do you want wine?
 Non, je vais acheter de la bière. No, I'm going to buy some beer.
 Elle a de l' argent? Does she have any money?
 Oui, et elle achète des petits pois. Yes, and she's buying some peas.

*NOTE: After a negative construction, the partitive articles du, de la, de l', and des change to de or d' regardless of the gender or number of the noun except after the verb ETRE. The English equivalent to the partitive in the negative is no or any.

Il n'y a pas de pain aujourd'hui.

There is no bread today.
There isn't any bread today.

Elle n'a pas acheté de croissants.

She didn't buy any croissants.

Vous ne prenez pas de salade?

You're not having any salad?

BUT

Ce n'est pas du vin américain.

This isn't american wine.

NOTE:

Remember that un / une means a / an and is used before a singular, countable, nonspecified noun. Normally, if a / an is in the English sentence, that is your cue to use un / une in French. The partitives du, de la, de l', & des, on the other hand, mean some / any (part of) a whole quantity or of a noun that is not countable. Remember that both the indefinite & partitive articles change to de after a negative construction.

-Paul, tu prends une bière ou du vin?
Paul, are you having a beer or some wine?

-Moi, je prends une bière, merci.
I'm having a beer, thanks.

Je ne prends pas de vin.
I'm not having any wine.

-Oui, je prends du vin. Je ne prends pas de bière.
Yes, I'm having some wine. I'm not having a beer.

Some nouns, however, can be modified by either the indefinite or the partitive article: thé, café, Coca, bière, Orangina, etc... In this case, the indefinite article un / une means a whole measure of, while the partitive articles mean part of the whole quantity.

-Qu'est-ce que tu prends comme boisson, Georges?

What are you having to drink, Georges?

-Oh, je prends du Coca.

Oh, I'm having (some) Coke.
(=a glass of Coke, i.e. part of a bottle)

OR

-Oh, je prends un Coca.

Oh, I'm having a (bottle of) Coke.

C'EST VS. IL EST

Both Il (ils, elle, elles) and Ce can mean he, she, it or that as the subject of the verb ETRE, but these pronouns are not interchangeable. There are specific grammatical rules that require choosing between Il (ils, elle, elles) and Ce.

- Generally, if the word following ETRE could itself function as the subject of a verb, you use CE
- If the word following ETRE cannot be the subject of a verb, you must use the appropriate personal pronoun il, elle, ils, or elles

A. CE + ETRE

- Proper noun: C'est Jeanne.
- Disjunctive pronoun: C'est elle.
Ce sont elles.
- Noun C'est une calculatrice?
-Non, ce n'est pas une calculatrice, c'est un ordinateur.
- Modified noun of profession, nationality, religion -C'est un bon professeur
- masculine adjective referring to a complete idea -Tu travailles dans un restaurant français?
-Oui, c'est intéressant.

B. IL / ELLE / ILS / ELLES + ETRE

- Adjectives referring to : specific people or things. Elle est belle.
- Prepositional phrase: Elle est dans un café.
Ils sont à Paris.
- Unmodified noun of profession, nationality, & religion Elle est professor.

NOTE: When stating a noun of profession, nationality, or religion, both C'EST & IL EST can be used if the noun is unmodified. In such a case, when you use C'EST, retain the article; after IL EST, omit it. When the noun is modified by an adjective, you must use C'EST.

COMPARATIVE & SUPERLATIVE

A. ADVERBS

1. EQUALITY

COMPARISONS OF EQUALITY WITH ADVERBS
AUSSI + adverb + QUE	as . . . as

Il danse aussi bien que son frère.
He dances as well as his brother.

Sophie s'habille aussi élégamment que sa mère.
Sophie dresses as elegantly as her mother.

2. COMPARATIVE

COMPARATIVE OF ADVERBS
PLUS + adverb + QUE	more . . . than (. . . -er)
MOINS + adverb + QUE	less . . . than (. . . -er)

Il parle plus lentement que Marie.
He speaks slower than Marie.

Elles travaillent moins vite que leurs amis.
They work less quickly than their friends.

NOTE: The adverb BIEN (well) is irregular. The comparative form is MIEUX (better). (Plus bien or plus mieux is NOT acceptable in French.)

MIEUX + QUE = better than

Vous chantez bien You sing well.
Vous chantez mieux que Jean. You sing better than Jean.

3. SUPERLATIVE

SUPERLATIVE OF ADVERBS
LE + PLUS + adverb + de	the most . . . in / of (. . . -er)
LE + MOINS + adverb + de	the least . . . in / of (. . . -er)

Il parle le plus vite de la classe.
He speaks the fastest in the class.

Elles travaillent le moins attentivement de tous les étudiants.
They work the least attentively of all the students.

NOTE: The adverb bien (well) is irregular: the superlative form is LE MIEUX (the best). (le plus bien / le plus mieux is NOT acceptable in French.)

LE MIEUX + DE = the best of/in

Vous chantez le mieux du groupe. You sing the best of the group.

B. ADJECTIVES - remember that the adjective must agree in gender & in number with the noun it modifies.

1. EQUALITY

COMPARISONS OF EQUALITY WITH ADJECTIVES
AUSSI + adjective + QUE	as . . . as

Ma maison est aussi grande que ton appartement.

My house is as big as your apartment.

Ma mère est aussi âgée que mon père

Ma mother is as old as my father.

NOTE: The adjective agrees in gender & in number with first noun & NOT the noun that follows QUE.

2. COMPARATIVE

COMPARATIVES WITH ADJECTIVES
PLUS + adjective + QUE	more . . . than (. . . -er)
MOINS + adjective + QUE	less . . . than (. . . -er)

Ma maison est plus grande que ton appartement.

My house is bigger than your apartment.

Ma mère est moins âgée que mon père

My mother is younger than my father.

NOTE: The adjective BON (good) is irregular: the comparative form is MEILLEUR(E)(S). (plus bon / plus meilleur(e)(s)) is NOT acceptable in FrE

MEILLEUR(E)(S) + QUE = better than

Ma note en français est meilleure que ta note.
My French grade is better than yours.

3. SUPERLATIVE will ALWAYS precede the adjective whether the adjective precedes or follows the noun.

SUPERLATIVES WITH ADJECTIVES
LE/LA/ L'/LES + PLUS + adjective + DE	the most . . . in / of (. . . -est)
LE/LA/L'/LES + MOINS + adjective + DE	the least . . . in / of (. . . -est)

Marie est la plus jolie fille de la famille. Marie is the prettiest girl in the family.
 Son frère est le moins grand de tous. Her brother is the shortest of all.

BUT

*Il a les cassettes les plus intéressantes He has the most interesting cassettes of the group.

*Voilà ma cassette la plus chère. Here's my most expensive cassette.

*NOTE: To form the superlative of adjectives that follow the noun, two markers are used. Place either a definite article or possessive adjective before the noun, and then place PLUS or MOINS before the adjective.

NOTE: The adjective bon is irregular: the superlative form is le/la/l'/les MEILLEUR(E)(S). (le/la/les plus bon(ne)(s) / le/la/les plus meilleur(e)(s) is NOT acceptable in French.)

Voilà les meilleurs disques de ma collection.
Here's the best records in my collection.

C. NOUNS

1. EQUALITY

EQUALITY OF NOUNS
AUTANT DE + noun + QUE (w/o article)	as much / many . . . as

J'ai autant de disques que mon ami. I have as many records as my friend.

2. COMPARATIVE

COMPARATIVE OF NOUNS
PLUS DE + noun + QUE (w/o article)	more . . . than
MOINS DE + noun + QUE (w/o article)	less / fewer . . . than Philippe a moins de disques que Georges. Philippe has fewer records than Georges.

J'ai plus de disques que Georges. I have more records than Georges.

CONDITIONAL (PRESENT)

- A. FORMATION - This is often equivalent to the English would + verb. For most verbs, the stem of the conditional is the infinitive except for -RE verbs which drop the final -E.

Infinitive / Irregular stem + Imperfect Endings

1. STEMS

a. REGULAR

PARLER	→	PARLER-
ETUDIER	→	ETUDIER-
FINIR	→	FINIR-
SORTIR	→	SORTIR-
ATTENDRE	→	ATTENDR-
DIRE	→	DIR-
ECRIRE	→	ECRIR-

- b. SLIGHTLY IRREGULAR - spelling changes that occur in the present tense of certain -ER verbs appear throughout the conditional.

acheter	→	è	y	→	i
se lever		achète- se lèver-
			ennuyer		ennuier-
			nettoyer		nettoier-
			essayer		essaier-
			payer		payer-
			employer		employer-

l	→	ll
s'appeler		s'appeller-

t	→	tt
jeter		jetter-

c. IRREGULAR STEM CHANGES

aller	→	ir-
avoir	→	aur-
devenir	→	deviendr-
envoyer	→	enverr-
être	→	ser-
faire	→	fer-
pouvoir	→	pourr-
recevoir	→	recevr-
savoir	→	saur-
venir	→	viendr-
voir	→	verr-
vouloir	→	voudr-

d. STEM ENDINGS

-ais	-ions
-ais	-iez
-ait	-aient

B. USES of the Conditional

1. POLITENESS when making requests or seeking information.

Je voudrais parler au patron, s'il vous plaît.

I'd like to speak to the boss please

Pourriez-vous me dire où se trouve le bureau de placement?

Could you tell me where the employment agency is?

Auriez-vous le temps pour une interview aujourd'hui?

Would you have the time for an interview today?

2. Indication of action at a future time that is hypothetical; it may or may not happen.

Il a dit qu'il irait chez le médecin à 3h.

He said that he would go to the doctor at 3 o'clock.

3. SI clauses used in conjunction with the imperfect. Imperfect will ALWAYS follow SI & the conditional will be in the other clause. Indicates what WOULD happen (conditional) IF certain conditions were met.

Si j'étais infirmière, je travaillerais dans le cabinet d'un médecin.

If I were a nurse, I would work in a doctor's office.

CONDITIONAL (PAST)

- A. FORMATION - To form the past conditional in French, the auxiliary verb (AVOIR or ETRE) in the present conditional is followed by the past participle of the main verb.

Je serais arrivé(e). . .
Tu lui aurais parlé . . .

Nous aurions fini . . .
Vous vous seriez fâché . . .

- B. USAGE - expresses what would have happened if another event had taken place or if certain conditions had been present. Thus, it is commonly used in expressions of regret and reproach.

1. Ways of expressing regret and reproach in English are could have and should have.

POUVOIR in past conditional + infinitive = could have DEVOIR in past conditional + infinitive = should have

Tu aurais pu me téléphoner!
Tu as raison. J'aurais dû te téléphoner.

You could have called me!
You're right. I should have called you.

2. SI CLAUSES - the past conditional most often appears in sentences in which the verb in the SI CLAUSE is in the PLUPERFECT

SI + PLUPERFECT, PAST CONDITIONAL

Si tu me l'avais dit, j'aurais pu apporter tous les outils nécessaires pour réparer ta voiture.
Tu n'aurais pas eu à faire venir un mécanicien si tu m'avais parlé de tes difficultés.

NOTE: Either the present or past conditional must be used following the expression au cas où

Au cas où tu aurais encore des problèmes, tu pourrais me donner un coup de fil.
In case you have further problems, you could give me a call.

Au cas où le mécanicien n'aurait pas pu venir réparer ta voiture, donne-moi un coup de fil.
In case the mechanic isn't able to come repair your car, give me a call.

DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES

This / That / These
masculine singular	ce	ce livre	this, that masculine singular before a vowel	cet	cet homme	this, that feminine singular	cette	cette femme	this, that
M & F plural	ces	ces tentes	these, those

Ce garçon va faire du camping
 Cet homme va avec le garçon.
 Cette femme n'aime pas le camping.

*This boy is going to go camping.
 This man is going to go with the boy.
 This woman doesn't like camping.*

Ces sacs de couchage sont confortables.
 Ces tentes ne sont pas grandes.

*These sleeping bags are comfortable.
 These tents aren't big.*

The distinction between this and that or these and those is not made as frequently in French as in English. When the need arises to make this distinction for clarity, emphasis, or comparison, -ci (=this) is added immediately after one noun and -là (=that) after the other.

-Quel maillot vas-tu acheter?

Which bathing suit are you going to buy?

-Je vais acheter ce maillot.

I'm going to buy this / that bathing suit.

-Moi, je vais acheter ce maillot-ci,
 pas ce maillot-là.

I'm going to buy this bathing suit, not that bathing suit.

DEVOIR

The present and the passé composé of DEVOIR have several meanings, depending on the context of the sentence. The following illustrate the four basic meanings of DEVOIR:

1. [present tense / DEVOIR + Direct object] means to owe (money & objects)
2. [present tense / DEVOIR + infinitive] means have to, must
3. [passé composé] means had to, must have
4. [imparfait] means was supposed to
5. [conditional] means should

 Vous devriez faire vos devoirs.

*You owe twenty francs to your sister.
 We have to go home tonight.
 They had to go into town.
 He must be sick or he must have forgotten.
 He was supposed to come last night.
 You should do your homework.*

FAIRE CAUSATIVE CONSTRUCTION

The causative FAIRE construction is used to express the idea of having something done, making someone do something, or causing something to be done

A. FORMATION

SUBJECT + FAIRE (conjugated) + INFINITIVE + DIRECT OBJECT (subj. of Infinitive)

J'ai fait venir le père à la réunion.
Il fait construire une maison.
Nous faisons manger le chat.

- B. When there are two objects of the infinitive, the indirect object always refers to the person or thing that is completing the action (subject of the infinitive) and the direct object refers to the object that receives the action of the infinitive.

SUBJ + FAIRE
(conjugated) + INFINITIVE + DIRECT OBJECT
(object of Infinitive) + à + INDIRECT OBJECT
(subject of infinitive)

Il fera boire un peu de vin à son enfant.
He will make his child drink a little wine.

Son dernier bouquin a fait gagner beaucoup d'argent à Jean-Jacques.
His last book earned Jean-Jacques a lot of money.

Elle a fait visiter la ferme à ses parents.
She had her parents visit the farm.

Tu vas faire perdre son poste à ton copain.
You are going to make your friend lose his job.

- C. When the direct & indirect objects are in the form of object pronouns, they precede the verb FAIRE and NOT the infinitive.

SUBJECT + OBJECT PRONOUNS + FAIRE
(conjugated) + INFINITIVE

Il la fait construire.
He is having it built.

Il lui en fera boire un peu.
He will make him/her drink alittle of it.

Elle la leur a fait visiter.
She had them visit it.

Tu vas le lui faire perdre.
You are going to make him lose it.

- B. SE FAIRE + INFINITIVE - means to have / get something done to oneself. Thus, the subject is not performing the action, but is having the action done by someone or something else.

Je me fais couper les cheveux.
Elle se fait bronzer à la plage.

I'm getting a haircut.
She is getting a tan at the beach.

FUTURE

A. IMMEDIATE FUTURE - It is possible to express a future idea by using the Immediate future (used to express a future idea that is in the not-too distant future.)

1. equivalent in English: to be going + 2nd verb in the infinitive

I'm going to go to the concert.

2. formed by: conjugated form of ALLER + 2nd Verb in the infinitive

Je vais aller au cinéma
Nous allons faire un tour en voiture.
Qu'est-ce que vous allez faire ce soir?

*I'm going to go to the movies.
We're going to go for a ride.
What are you going to do tonight?*

3. In the negative, ne...pas is placed around the conjugated form of ALLER.

Mathilde ne va pas quitter la maison.

Mathilde isn't going to leave the house.

B. REGULAR FUTURE -

1. FORMATION - This is often equivalent to the English will + verb. For most verbs, the stem of the regular future is the infinitive except for -RE verbs which drop the final -E.
